—And Naturally He Bought a Hamilton

Conductor E. J. Crane, of the Eric, has fifty-three years of active service to his credit. He has been a conductor for forty-three years. When Conductor Crane desired to buy a watch to serve him on duty his choice was a Hamilton. If you ask Conductor Crane why he chose a Hamilton he will tell you that he had to have accuracy and wanted dependability, too.

And that, in a nutshell, is why so many railroad men are buying Hamiltons today. They know that when they purchase a Hamilton they at once take the guesswork out of watch-buying and are sure they have bought the best that can be had.

Ask your jeweler to show you the new railroad cased models now available. They are a combination of the famous Hamilton "992" in a sturdy case designed particularly for railroad service. And remember, as you look upon these models, that they are the kind of watches that have helped make railroad history—and will be doing the same thing a generation from now.

You will be interested in a new folder about these watches that is yours for the asking. With the folders we will send you a copy of the Hamilton TimeBook, which you will find very useful. Write for these today.
