Start the New Year Right

"The re-establishment of harmonious relations between the government and the business interests of the country"—this should be the political platform and creed of every railroad man.

Every one of you railroad men know that without harmonious relations between the government and business interests, your job is in jeopardy and your welfare on thin ice.

It is vital to your welfare that your relations with your employing company should be friendly and based on wise and mutual understanding. It is just as necessary that the relations between the government and the railroads should be based on a similarly wise and mutual understanding.

In THE MEDIATOR for January you will find a strong and able array of articles bearing upon the question of the relations of the government and business. Do not fail to read: "Government Ownership," "The Handwriting on the Wall," and "Everybody's Business—Your Business."

The January issue also contains "The Lesson of Los Angeles," by J. K. Turner; a searching analysis of the causes underlying the McNamara dynamiting, and which points out the fact that the events involved will pave the way for a better and cleaner labor unionism.

The January issue of THE MEDIATOR is bigger and better than ever. Send for free sample copy. On sale on the news stands.
