Friends For Forty Years

Just forty years ago Ward's first catalogue came, a stranger, into a few thousand homes.

Back of this first tiny, homely book, there was a sincerity of purpose—an honesty of statement, a bigness of value and a pledge of honor that made for it many friends—friends that are still its friends after forty years.

The first book of 32 pages is now a thousand-page volume.

But the honest value, the high quality, the trustful statements are still there.

And the pledge of honor, "Absolute satisfaction or your money back"—the first guarantee ever given by merchant to buyer—is still in force.

If you have not seen this store in book form, you should send for the 1913 edition today.

Millions have it.

Millions buy from it. And these millions of customers, these millions of friends save millions of dollars each year on their purchases.

No matter what it is you want, whether it be something to eat or wear, something for the home or farm, you can get it at a big price-saving through this thousand-page book.

The Twentieth Century Christ

This is the startling title of a startling article by J. K. Turner. He tells how a strange thing has happened in the industrial world—subtly and mystically. He asserts that the Twentieth Century Christ is here! Not a man, but a spirit. The spirit of co-operation, of square-dealing, of bearing one another's burdens. Mr. Turner tells how the Big Composite Mind of the present day is vitalizing the teachings of Christ, just as Constantine of Rome laid hold of them and vitalized them in the days of old, making Christianity the authorized religion of the age. You will find this powerful article in

The March Mediator

"Business is the last great citadel to yield to the simple teachings of the Nazarene," says the writer. Railroad heads, scholars, preachers and laborers have read advance proof sheets of this article. Many of them call it inspired. It defines in clear simplicity the true meaning of brotherhood. You will want to read it—every word. If you are not a subscriber to THE MEDIATOR, send for a free copy of this issue.
